Money search aids schools

Profile
By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Goni Michaeloff likes to look for money.
As the grant writer for the Granite City School District, she is responsible for finding extra money for programs within the school district.
The grants can be multi-year federal grants worth thousands of dollars or a $100 gift to buy supplies for a special project.
"This is new money that's coming in — we always need things in the school district to improve," she said. "Any time you can improve or enhance the educational situation, then I think that's good."
Since becoming the district's grant writer in the 1991-92 school year, Michaeloff has been very successful at finding cash.
"Any way that we can get revenue to enhance the educational system for the student, to make it a better system for the student, that's exactly what we need," she said. "I do bring in money. I guess I have a lot of luck, and I have a lot of guidance from up above."
She said much of her success was due to teamwork.
Most of the larger grants are for long-term projects.
"Instead of having a project that is short-lived, like for just one year, you have a project that can sustain itself," she said. "If you have a program (See GONI, Page 8A)"

Water unsafe, group charges

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

An environmental group's report on tap water contamination in Granite City and 27 other U.S. cities brought a quick response from water and chemical companies.
On Thursday, the Environmental Working Group, a Washington, D.C.-based nonprofit environmental group, released a report detailing contamination by what it called "cancer-causing weed killers" — including atrazine and cyanazine — in the tap water of 28 of 29 cities monitored, including St. Louis and Granite City.
According to the report — entitled "Weed Killers by the Glass" — there was "widespread contamination of public tap water."
According to the report, infants and young children are especially at risk in cities with high levels of contamination.
The report recommended that young children avoid drinking tap water May 1 through August 30.
Most of the chemicals named were herbicides used in corn production, and wind up in the Mississippi River because of runoff.
"Water companies cannot control what happens upstream. It's time to change how we protect our water," said Suzi Wilkins, executive director of the Mississippi River Basin Alliance, a St. Louis-based environmental coalition of more than 30 organizations.
According to the report, "Granite City drinking water is contaminated with cancer-causing weed killers that frequently exceed federal standards."
However, officials with the Illinois American Water Co. which provides drinking water for the Granite City area, and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency said the city's water was safe to drink.
The Granite City results are based on 12 water samples taken between May 27

Report is misleading, firms say

Granite City tap water is safe to drink, according to both the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and officials with the Illinois-American Water Co.
The water company was one of several that responded to a report issued Thursday by the Environmental Working Group claiming tap water in 28 of 29 cities, including Granite City, is contaminated by high levels of herbicides.
"The reported concentrations do not represent a health concern to Illinois-American's customers in the Granite City service area," said a press release issued by the company late Thursday.
One chemical company had an even more pointed response.
Ciba, one of the makers of atrazine, a chemical mentioned in the report, said it was "misleading and irresponsibly alarming to the public."
"In this new report, EWG continues its practice of using alarmist tactics (See REPORT, Page 10A)"

Legion post may move

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A lack of parking, a building in need of major repairs and a deteriorating neighborhood have caused an American Legion post to look for a new home.
American Legion Post 113, now at 1825 State in Granite City, is considering a relocation to property it owns on Maryville Road near the Mitchell fire station.
The post has asked the Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals to rezone the 3.2-acre tract from R-3 single family residential to B-1 limited business district. The post is also seeking a special use permit for clubs and lodges to serve alcohol.
A hearing is scheduled for 9:15 a.m. Sept. 7 at the site.
Post Commander Jim Pursell said the post has owned the property for about 10 years.
"We're trying to build a new post out there," he said. "We're just starting out, and our building committee hasn't even met yet."
He estimated the cost at between $300,000 and $350,000.
Pursell cited several reasons for wanting to move.
"We don't have any parking down here at all," he said. "The building's old and it needs more repairs than it is worth."
He also said the neighborhood is deteriorating.
"Downtown is shot anyway," he said. "There's nothing down there anymore."

Heat funds have run out

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

While hot, humid weather continues to plague the area and drive up electric bills, emergency funds to help lower-income residents pay those bills have run out.
Madison County officials said Thursday it is too late to apply for grants to help low-income residents pay their electric bills.
Because of the huge number of applicants, no more money is available, said Madison County Community Development Director Cheryl Joutet.
"We have got people coming out our ears," she said. "We have made 1,000 appointments through Sept. 11."
Madison County received $259,912 as part of a $15.7 million emergency grant awarded to Illinois by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.
The funds were provided to help low-income families pay their electric bills or purchase fans or air conditioners to keep cool during the summer months.
This was the first time since the late 1980s that federal funds have been provided for this purpose, according to the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.
When the grant was awarded, Joutet said the county would be able to assist approximately 500 people.
On Thursday, she said approximately one-third of the money has been spent, and the remaining funds will be used up by the people who have already applied.
"We never thought there would be this kind of response," Joutet said.

Heat's tough on pets

Dogs are having a tough time during these dog days.
Humane organizations are being swamped with calls telling of dogs tied up outside without access to water.
If you do, the dog is dead," warns Ledy VanKavage of Collinsville, president of the Madison County Humane Society.
VanKavage said leaving out a "kiddie" pool can prevent such an accident, or pet owners can just dig a hole and place a bucket of water inside.
She suggested neighbors who notice a dog tied up without water politely suggest a solution to the owner. "We get a lot of calls about dogs that are dead by the time they call," she said.
The Madison County shelter has no air conditioning, but the pets lie on a wet floor with fans blowing over them.
"Our cat room is still hot. It's real hot for the poor kitties," VanKavage said.

How do you feel about cigarettes being declared a drug?

By SHIRLEY VALENCIA

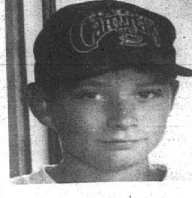

Debbie Presley Granite City
"I'm all for it. Nicotine is highly addictive. I don't smoke and never will, although the kids will always find a way to get cigarettes."

Luke Williams Granite City
"I feel smoking is hazardous to your health. It's a bad habit for our kids to take up. I smoke and I wish I could quit. It's a hard habit to break."

Chase Rhoads Granite City
"I don't think cigarettes are a drug. People use cigarettes to relax. My family smokes to relax. I don't smoke, but I probably will try it. It's easy to get cigarettes. It's the store for my stepfather and they sell me cigarettes."

Bryan Clark Granite City
"I feel it is a drug. It's very addictive and it causes lung cancer. I will never smoke."

Rick Fowler Granite City
"I don't smoke and never will. I believe it's hazardous to your health, but if people want to smoke, it's their choice and only theirs. Politicians should not get involved in personal lives. If you want to help the people, do something worthwhile."

Weed whacking turns to an unwieldy sport

The following is a reprint of a column that has been previously published.

Ever have one of those days when everything goes wrong? A day when you have the Midas touch in reverse? A day when you not only can't accomplish anything, you are lucky you don't hurt yourself instead?

Last Sunday was one of those days at my house. For the past several years a local man and his son cut and edged my lawn during the summer.

Unfortunately, he passed away last spring, and eventually his son abandoned the business. While I was recovering from heart surgery, my lawn turned into a pretty good imitation of an African jungle. It needed everything, from the weeds whacked to the edging and trimming. Recently I decided that I was well enough to tackle the jungle myself, at least with help from my daughter. I had my old lawn mower tuned up and filled it with gas. Then I went over to a local hardware store and bought the best electric weed whacker and their best electric edger.

Fully equipped, my daughter and I attacked the lawn Sunday morning about 10. I got the new weed whacker and edger out of the car trunk and proudly placed them in the driveway where my neighbors could admire my new expensive toys. I started on the weeds with the weed whacker while my daughter cranked up the mower and started on the lawn.

After about two minutes of whacking, the line on the weed whacker broke, and additional line would not feed the mower automatically as advertised. I had to take the whole bottom off and pull new line out with a long and dirty job. This happened again and again, and no matter how hard I tried, the line would not advance without major assembly every few minutes. My temperature was beginning to rise.

Just then my daughter called me to announce the mower had stopped. I tried the mower. It wouldn't start. I checked the gas. I checked the oil. I yelled at the mower. I yelled at my daughter. I kicked the mower. My daughter took off for the house calling for her mother.

Finally the mower started, but wouldn't run for more than a minute or two without stalling. Apparently I had used old gas when I filled it.

By now it was noon and it was getting hot. I was getting hotter. The hardware store where I had bought my weed whacker was open, so I threw it into the back seat and started backing down the driveway. The first thing I noticed was a loud, grinding noise coming from the area of the car's transmission. "Just what I need," I thought. "Now the car won't work either."

But as I pulled into the street, there was one loud thump, and the grinding noise stopped. I felt a surge of relief, at least until I glanced in the rear-view mirror. There was something lying in the street. I stopped and went back to check.

It resembled an edger — my new, unused edger — except that it was bent into a U shape and had a tire print right over the motor. I nudged it with my foot. It didn't move. It looked dead. I quickly backed it down to a dark corner of my basement.

At the hardware store I swapped the weed whacker for a new one. I haven't tried it yet, so I don't even know if it works. I just took it and left. I didn't even mention the poor construction of their edgers.

My new lawn service started Friday. They did a great job. If anyone would like to buy an absolutely new, unused but very short lawn edger, please call.

Amid criticism, motor-voter law kicks into effect

Drivers license stations started registering voters Tuesday under the federal "motor-voter" law, but a critic contends the process will cause widespread confusion.

Secretary of State George Ryan said all patrons of drivers license facilities will now be asked if they want to register to vote for federal candidates. Staff members will fill out motor-voter forms to be sent to local election jurisdictions.

"In some cases, lines and waiting times may increase for customers as everybody deals with the added paperwork," Ryan said. "However, the law is the law and I am committed to making sure that my office complies fully with the motor-voter act."

Ryan said his staff will also inform patrons that registration under the motor-voter law will allow them to vote only for president, vice president and members of Congress. He said if they also want to register to vote in state and local elections, they will be directed to qualified deputy registrars.

Ryan's actions drew immediate fire from Cook County Clerk David Orr, who has crusaded across the state for full implementation of the federal law in Illinois.

Orr said his office surveyed people coming out of driver's stations in Chicago who had registered Tuesday under the motor-voter law and "none of them realized Ryan had only registered them halfway."

"This is not motor-voter. This is dupe the voters," Orr charged. "(Ryan) is putting in place a program that baffles voters and perverts the simplicity and efficiency of motor-voter."

Bills that would have imposed the motor-voter registration requirements uniformly for state and local in addition to federal elections failed in the Legislature this spring because of opposition from Gov. Jim Edgar, House Speaker Lee Daniels and Senate

President James "Pate" Philip, all Republicans.

They alleged the law would lead to more vote fraud. Democrats charged the Republicans did not want to make it easier for low-income people to register to vote.

The motor-voter law directs states to take a more active role in registering residents to vote. State workers at public assistance and drivers license facilities must ask patrons if they want to register.

Illinois and Mississippi are the only states that have not passed state legislation needed to avoid a two-tiered system, in which registration under the motor-voter provisions applies only to federal elections.

Some officials say the two-tiered system will create chaos and confusion on election days.

The Senate fight begins: Durbin, Quinn square off

U.S. Rep. Richard Durbin and rival U.S. Senate candidate Pat Quinn squared off Wednesday during a Democratic Party forum.

Durbin and Quinn, a former state treasurer, were among five candidates seeking support for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Paul Simon.

Candidates met behind closed doors with party officials then opened the meeting to the public. During the public session, Durbin, without mentioning Quinn by name, criticized him for refusing to say he would support the Democratic nominee in the fall general election.

"If the choice is between a Democrat and a Republican, supporting Gingrich and Dole, I have no problem," Durbin said. He also criticized Quinn for talking about constitutional amendments and congressional term limits.

"The working people I talk to are not concerned about term limits but limits on their own income," he said.

Durbin said later, "I want people to know there are differences between Pat and me."

Quinn responded by calling Durbin "the congressman from Washington" and criticizing him for not signing a pledge to limit campaign spending in the Democratic primary to no more than $1 million.

He also rapped Durbin for accepting substantial campaign contributions from political action committees.

Quinn said he didn't expect to be endorsed by the state party committee and opposed the idea of slating candidates.

Another hopeful, Ronald Gibbs, a public relations executive who was formerly a top aide to the late Mayor Harold Washington of Chicago, said, "I think it too early to make an endorsement, if there should be an endorsement at all."

State Democratic chairman Gary LaPaille said he believed "we are probably headed toward making an endorsement."

Durbin said an official party endorsement "doesn't guarantee the nomination but it is very helpful." He said endorsement would particularly assist in raising campaign money.

Gibbs, a senior vice president of the public relations firm of Fleishman-Hillard, cited his leadership role in establishing the Vietnam Veterans Memorial and said economic development was the focus of his campaign.

The two other candidates in the forum were Jaleel Ahmad and Paul Park, both of Chicago. Ahmad, a native of Pakistan, owns a construction company that works primarily on U.S. military bases. His campaign is centered on a "plan for economic independence" that includes finding jobs for those who are laid off and interest-free small-business and college loans.

Park is a native of Korea who said his platform included eliminating the trade deficit, restoring employment and restoring family values.

Time, interest help savings grow

As the lazy days of summer pass us by, here's a reminder to the younger generation about the cost of waiting to begin saving. It is an important lesson because the most valuable investment asset a young person possesses is time and compound interest.

For all you 20 to 30 year olds out there, it may seem trivial to be putting away $2,000 a year for retirement. Indeed, when your friends are driving new cars and going to exotic places for vacation, it's easy to fall into that pattern. But, you may not be able to afford retirement with that mentality. I heard it phrased the other day as, "would you rather retire to the golden years or to the golden arches?"

So, let's look at two examples using tax deferred savings. Assume these two individuals are going to invest for growth and that over the long term, they project they can earn 10 percent on their money.

Brian Mulhall

Chris (the saver), at the age of 20, opened a retirement account with $2,000. At the beginning of each subsequent year for the next nine years, he added another $2,000 for a total deposit of $20,000. In another 35 years, without an additional deposit by Chris, his investment of $20,000 turned into $1,087,112, before tax and inflation, at his age 65.

Toni (the spender) waited until age 30 to begin her savings program. She decided to contribute $1,000 a year more than Chris, or $3,000 a year, into the same type of tax deferred investment. In addition, she would make the deposits for three times as long, or for 30 years, to her age 60, for a total deposit of $90,000. Surely Toni would surpass Chris and have much more money at age 65, since she put so much more away.

Toni fell short of Chris by more than $200,000. She accumulated $874,233 versus Chris, who accumulated more than $1 million. The irony in this situation is that even though Toni contributed 50 percent more each year and for 20 more years than Chris, she will never catch up.

The solution to most individuals' concern for retirement savings is to just get started, regardless of your age or the amount of money you have to save. You cannot hindsight yourself and say it's too late. You will never have a longer holding period for an investment dollar designated for retirement than today. With retirement planning dollars, you are investing for life.

expectancy, not the day you retire.

Today more than ever, individuals should be more concerned about establishing their own pool of cash for retirement. With the uncertainty of Social Security and many companies moving away from traditional pension plans, you must take more control of your financial future. The best place to get started is using your company's savings plan. If this is not available, then set up your own account. If you do not know where to turn, then seek professional advice with an experienced financial planning professional.

If you are serious about retirement planning, it's better to take your dose of realism now, because the taste sure doesn't get any better.

Entry forms being accepted— Main Street competition opens

Entry forms are now being accepted for the 1996 Great American Main Street Awards contest, announced Jeffrey M. Prosser, the Granite City investment representative with Edward D. Jones and Co.

For the second consecutive year, the financial services firm is sponsoring the contest in conjunction with the National Trust for Historic Preservation's National Main Street Center. The goal is to recognize exceptional accomplishments in revitalizing America's historic and traditional downtowns and neighborhood commercial districts.

At the conclusion of this year's contest, five communities will be awarded the distinction of having the best of the Great American Main Streets, each receiving $5,000 to use toward further revitalization efforts, along with plaques, road signs and certificates to mark the achievement.

The five winners will be announced and awards will be presented in a special ceremony during the opening session of the 1996 National Town Meeting April 29 on Main Street in Nashville, Tenn.

Winners will be determined based on the following criteria:

- ✓ An evolving track record of individual and overall success in preservation-based commercial district revitalization;
- ✓ Strong support from the public and private sectors for the downtown revitalization effort.

- ✓ Broad-based community input, support and involvement in the process.
- ✓ Innovative solutions to specific downtown revitalization problems.

These criteria are not taken lightly by Jones, the largest brokerage firm in the nation in terms of number of offices. The firm's investment representatives, located in more than 3,100 offices in downtown and neighborhood commercial districts across the country, are committed to supporting their local communities. Many Jones offices can even be found in historic buildings that have been recognized for their restorations and preservation of local history.

"Our success at Edward D. Jones and Co., as business people and as members of the community, depends on the economic and social well-being of that community," Prosser said. "We are constantly looking for ways to give something back, through local charities or contests like the Great American Main Street Awards, to ensure that our community remains a thriving place to live and work."

The 1996 Great American Main Street Awards contest is open to U.S. cities and towns of all sizes and populations. Any individual, organization or agency involved in a revitalization process may submit an entry form on behalf of his or her community.

Entries should include slides and a description of the community's overall downtown revitalization achievements as well as specific projects, activities and events that have had a substantial impact on the revitalization. Entries also must be endorsed by representatives of major public and private sectors of the community.

Three credit union members are now enjoying La-Z-Boy recliners from Henry Burns Furniture, won in the Granite City Steel and Community Federal Credit Union's 30-minute auto loan promotion. Pictured are, from left, Keith Burton, assistant credit union manager; Robert Lybarger, credit union member; Henry Burns; William Woodward, credit union member; and Mark Holshouser, credit union manager. Not pictured is third winner Lynda Mullins.

Phone lending service unveiled

Calling it a boon for members everywhere, Granite City Steel and Community Federal Credit Union has unveiled a telephone lending service offering 30-minute response time as its primary benefit.

To apply for a loan, credit union members simply call the credit union's new telephone center from wherever they happen to be and speak to a member services representative trained to handle loan applications. With no complicated forms to complete, members in good standing need only provide their account number, amount they wish to borrow, the purpose or nature of the loan and verifiable information about their income.

Telephone center loans may be approved in 30 minutes or less, enabling members to make their purchases immediately. In a recent promotion touting the telephone center as the "lazy member's" source for a 30-minute auto loan, Granite City Steel and Community Federal Credit Union offered competitive loan rates and something more: a chance to win one of three La-Z-Boy recliners provided by Henry Burns Furniture.

More than 100 members took advantage of this auto loan extravaganza in July and three came up as winners. Granite City residents William Woodward, Robert Lybarger and Lynda Mullins are all enjoying low-cost credit union auto loans and comfortable recliners.

Year round, many types of personal loans are available through the telephone center, including auto, boat, recreational vehicle and signature loans, as well as Visa credit cards.

Polsky hearing concludes

State environmental officials will decide in October whether Polsky Energy Corp. can build an $80 million, wood-burning energy plant in Wood River.

Chief hearing officer Michael Wallace of the Illinois Pollution Control Board took final testimony Thursday from environmental groups questioning the fundamental fairness of a March hearing on the criteria for the Wood River site.

The Sierra Club, the Madison County Conservation Alliance and Jim Bensman of East Alton asked the board to reconsider the city's decision, based on evidence presented at the March hearing, to allow the plant to be built in the Lewis and Clark EnviroTech Business Park.

Polsky, operating as Wood River Partners Limited

Liability Corp., plans to build the plant to burn scrap wood and shredded tires to produce electrical power for sale to Illinois Power Co.

The plant promises to add 50 permanent jobs and a $5 million annual operating budget to the economy by 1997.

The company has applied for $70 million in tax-exempt state bonds to help pay for the project.

Appeal testimony Thursday, limited to the fairness issue, concentrated on whether the environmental groups should have received a transcript of the earlier public hearing at standard copying costs.

Both sides have until Sept. 5 to add written comments before the Pollution Control Board makes a final decision. That decision is scheduled to be made at the board's Oct. 5 meeting in Chicago.

Bensman said he expects to win the fairness appeal, which would set up a new siting hearing, because the board has made similar decisions in previous cases.

The Pollution Control Board will also consider an appeal on the basis of the site criteria, but no additional testimony was taken on that issue Thursday.

"If we win on the criteria issue, the siting will be denied," Bensman said.

Polsky Vice President Jim Shield said he will have to wait for the decision, but he believes the appeal is without merit, based on the record.

"We anticipate a favorable decision by the Pollution Board, and we are continuing plans to build the plant."

local environmental group. In one sample, taken June 1, five different chemicals — atrazine, cyanazine, metolachlor, acetochlor and desethylatrazine — were found.

Kathy Andria of SPILL said atrazine, a commonly-used corn herbicide, was found in all of the Granite City samples. Contamination is measured in parts per billion. Andria said test results showed an average atrazine level of 1.44 ppb. The EPA has set a yearly level of 3 ppb for drinking water.

Andria said atrazine has been shown to cause mammary gland cancer in female rats and is classified by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency as a possible human carcinogen.

Cyanazine was found in 92 percent of the Granite City samples. She said the highest level of cyanazine found was 1.7 ppb.

The federal government has not set a safe level for cyanazine, but on Aug. 2, the EPA announced that DuPont, which markets cyanazine under the trade name Bladex, would phase out production over the next four years.

In November, 1994, the EPA initiated a special review of cyanazine, atrazine and simazine known collectively as triazines — because of concerns about the risks of cancer from long-term exposure to the chemicals.

According to the EPA, numerous ground water and surface water studies have shown the presence of triazines in drinking water, especially during the spring and summer, when the chemicals are more heavily used.

Water company spokesman Wayne F. Schlosser said water supplied to all its service areas is in compliance with existing U.S. EPA standards.

He said the company has been studying pesticides since 1976, and the company's monitoring program checks for 37 different substances, including atrazine and cyanazine.

"In addition to complying with the EPA's quarterly monitoring requirements, Illinois-American has been monitoring the Mississippi River for atrazine daily during the peak runoff season for the past two years," Schlosser said. "The data also shows that all of the company districts have been in compliance with the established limits for those compounds in drinking water since monitoring began."

He noted that the Granite City treatment plant is equipped to remove herbicides and other organic compounds.

"Like the EWG, Illinois-American would prefer that there were no pesticides in its source waters," he said. "However, as a water utility operating in the Midwest, the company recognizes that its rivers are influenced by runoff from farms and is likely to contain pesticides at certain times of the year."

Her performances include pageants and other competitions, and volunteering for children's hospitals. She also has pursued a career in ceremony music and vocals for weddings.

Individual, groups or business sponsors are being sought to help Sumner with the entry fee to this showcase. Each sponsor donating $25 or more will be given a ticket that will be entered for a cash drawing. Also, anyone donating $5 or more will be given a tape of Sumner's latest release, "Songs From My Heart," featuring two of her original songs, "Mama's Lullaby" and "This Time Around."

To be able to showcase her talent, Sumner must find 20 $25 sponsors by Aug. 25. If you would like to help, please call 991-SYNG and leave a message. You may also send your donations to: Sponsorship, 4145 Lake Drive, Granite City, IL, 62040. All donations will be greatly appreciated.

Timely tips on Lawn Care from the experts at

FRANK'S®

Sure doesn't seem possible that Labor Day is only a couple of weeks away, but here we are in the middle of August. And, in case you may have overlooked it, the time is right for the fourth phase of your lawn care program.

Along about now, or next week, your lawn could stand a feeding of Frank's Fall Lawn Food or Weed & Feed.

Frank's Fall Lawn Food (24-3-12) is very high in nitrogen, which means it promotes healthy, green growth. It's also high in potassium, which helps strengthen the lawn, increases insect and disease resistance and improves cold hardiness.

Take a look around your yard. Is it relatively weed-free? If so, go ahead with the Frank's Fall Lawn Food. If it has more than its share of weeds, though, hold off for a few weeks. Instead, apply Frank's Weed & Feed.

There's a good chance that these weeds you see are dandelions. That's right. There's little or no yellow showing up now, but it doesn't matter. If you don't do something with them now, the yellow will be in full bloom next spring.

Now's the best time to get rid of 'em. When we say now, we mean any time during the next few weeks. Dandelions are storing up energy for the winter, and they'll absorb the weed killer better, which is why now's the time to go after them, and we can't think of a better way than to use Frank's Weed & Feed.

In a few weeks or so, around Columbus Day, you can give the lawn a feeding of Frank's Fall Lawn Food.

So make your lawn happy now, and you'll have a happier Labor Day spending it doing what you like!

Lawn Odds 'n Ends
Have you ever noticed mushrooms growing up from your lawn now and then, especially after a rain? Ever wonder why and what you can do to stop them? Well, we'll tell you. The mushroom is the above-ground fruiting or reproductive structure of a fungus that lives on and helps to decay organic matter buried in the soil, usually wood. There could be any number of things buried down there, from partially rotted roots to logs, to pieces of lumber left from when the house was built. But don't place the blame on the builder, either. There are so many scraps of wood when building a house, nobody can keep track of them all. Something's bound to get buried.

Good news and bad news. Most mushrooms won't damage your lawn. But you can't do anything to permanently get rid of them, aside from digging up your lawn and removing everything you find down there. That's taking things a bit far for a few mushrooms. So what's the solution? Unfortunately, not much. About all you can do is cut 'em or pull 'em, but it's only a temporary measure. They'll be back, at least until whatever's buried under there decays completely.

Never, ever eat the mushrooms you find in your yard, since many of them could be poisonous. Of course many aren't, but if you aren't familiar with them and don't know which is which, eating them could be very dangerous.

Although there's little you can do about the current mushrooms, if you plan on building a deck or other structure, be careful and try to keep as many pieces as possible from getting buried.

FOOTBALL

Warriors' season preview.
WednesdayArt
VoellingerBorder War
calls truce

You know the shame of the 1995 collegiate football season? There's no Illinois-Missouri game.

Sure, I know Missouri has not had a winning season since 1983, but the Tigers still lead the Illini 11-7 in their series and have even managed to split the last four games.

IN 1991, WHEN the schools resumed the series that had ended in '84, Mizzou gained a 23-19 win at Columbia only to lose 24-17 the following season at Champaign. In '93 Missouri won 31-3 at home, and last season fell 42-0 at Illinois.

Still, what happened in '95? "That's one of the things we discussed when we were in the media day in St. Louis," said Steve Wujek, an assistant sports information director at Missouri. "We definitely want to resume the series."

The hangup? Missouri and its Big Eight Conference rivals have added Baylor, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Texas to become the Big 12 with conference football games scheduled to begin in 1996.

PLAYING EIGHT league games in '96 as a member of the North Division this will reduce Missouri's non-conference schedule to three, with Illinois being an opponent only if a common date can be found.

While the current Missouri schedule includes North Texas (Sept. 2), Bowling Green (Sept. 9), Texas Tech (Sept. 16) and Northeast Louisiana (Sept. 25), Illinois' corresponding slate of Saturdays has Michigan, Oregon, Arizona and East Carolina.

Length of contracts and possible buyouts appear to be the only solution if Illinois and Missouri are to meet again.

Again, that's a shame, especially when you consider how the two universities benefit from their annual basketball clash which fortunately is played annually in St. Louis.

OVERTIME: Each spring this corner makes mention of the annual Lyle Fischer Golf Tournament — a four-man scramble played for the benefit of the Illinois scholarship fund.

While Lyle Fischer has retired from his tavern-restaurant at 1201 East Main Street, his wife Melba had continued the business and their loyalty to Illinois.

Recently she passed along a letter reflecting some Illini class from Belleville East grad Steve Roth. The letter reads: "On behalf of the University of Illinois and the Division of Intercollegiate Athletics, it is a pleasure for me to acknowledge your contribution to the Fighting Illini Scholarship Fund."

"As an incoming freshman at Illinois, I knew what my future held academically. It was through basketball, however, that my life changed forever. A walk-on my first two seasons, I found myself a member of one of the best basketball programs in the country."

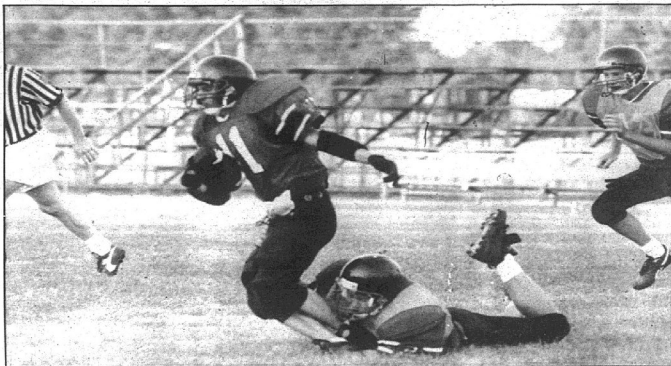

"I will never forget the phone call from Coach Henson telling me I had earned a full athletic scholarship for my final two years! Taking full advantage, I earned my bachelor's degree in marketing last spring. For my final season, I began work toward my master's degree in sports management, earning academic All-Big 10 honors."

"Next year I will continue my education as a graduate assistant in the athletic department, planning to pursue a career in collegiate or professional sports administration."

"You, as a member of the Fighting Illini Scholarship Fund, are an integral part of our formula for success. Through your support and friendship, the participants who represent the University of Illinois athletic teams build a foundation which will last a lifetime."

"I thank you on behalf of all my fellow student-athletes for your interest and investment in our future."

Rightfully, Melba should feel proud — as proud as the Roths of Belleville.

Yehling commits to Lincoln

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

It's one thing to have the privilege of going to college, and it's another to be joining an up-and-coming program like the one Karen Yehling is joining.

Yehling, 18, has already reported to Lincoln College, where she will swim for coach Dan Hemenway and the Lynx swimming program. This is a program which, despite having only 10 swimmers last year, broke numerous school, Illinois and regional records.

THE LYNX RECORDED a 6-1 dual-meet record and won the District IV regional before finishing fourth at the nationals. Seven of that team's 10 swimmers return this year, and Yehling should help strengthen an already powerful junior college program.

Yehling has been swimming at Paddlers Swim Club since she was six years old. Besides the Paddlers team, she also entered the Illinois State Regionals last year, advancing all the way to the state championships and finishing third.

A butterfly specialist, Yehling also has trained for the past six years at a Clayton club under Dr. Terry Freerks. That paid off this year, as she won a gold medal at the Prairie State Games, then finished second in her individual event and third in her relay event at the SWISA meet.

"I SHOULD HAVE won at SWISA," Yehling said. "I had an off day, but I still got second, so I was fairly happy with that."

She seems more than fairly happy about where she'll be attending school this fall. "I feel pretty good with this decision," Yehling said. "It's a small, private school, and it's a two-year program. That's what I wanted, a small school right now."

Yehling said she looks forward to moving on to Eastern Illinois University or Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville after she completes her studies at Lincoln. She said she wants to be a teacher in the future, or possibly go into sports medicine. She said she will concentrate on the butterfly in college, and with Hemenway's help will begin training soon.

YEHLING CERTAINLY has the background for success. She has recorded a personal-best time of 1:05.89 in the 100-yard butterfly, and 2:22.28 in the 200 butterfly. Her 100-yard freestyle time is a cool 1:00.64, and her individual medley time for 200 yards is 2:39.29.

"I think I'm ready for that level of swimming," she said. "I've learned a lot about swimming in the last few years from Celeste (Furmanek) and Dr. Freerks. I think winning at the Prairie State (See YEHLING, Page 3B)

Warriors, fans weather first team scrimmageBy Rob Raphael

The conditions couldn't have been worse, but the spirit shown on the field during the Granite City Warriors' scrimmage Thursday night at Memorial Stadium couldn't have been better.

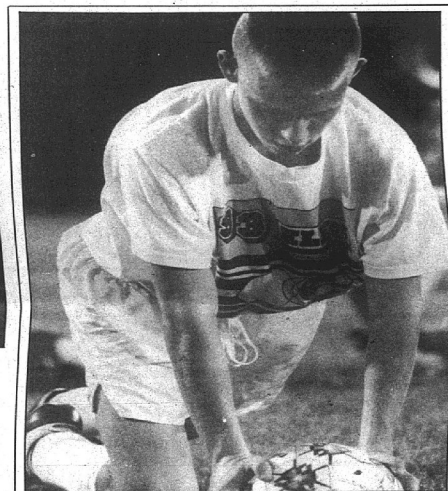

With temperatures hovering in the upper 90s at the start of the scrimmage, the heat was a major factor for the players and the many fans who turned out to watch the annual dress rehearsal.

AFTER DARK, however, once the heat subsided, the mosquitoes took over.

"We came out here to scrimmage a couple days ago," said Warriors coach Don Harris. "We really weren't going to run many plays, just mainly talk through them. But the mosquitoes were so bad, we couldn't do it. We ran a couple plays and went back in the building."

It was pretty bad Thursday, too. But the players seemed to ignore the conditions and went through a vigorous one-hour workout with full pads and uniforms.

So why dress these players up in full uniform and march them out on a hot, humid evening? "That's the point right there," Harris said. "They have to get (See WARRIORS, Page 4B)

Summer volleyball camps
keep Lady Warriors on courtBy Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Pure talent is never enough in volleyball, where the word "teamwork" can never be over-emphasized.

That's why it's so encouraging for Granite City volleyball coach Cindy Gagich when she sees what her players have been doing during summer vacation. They've been working.

NO FEWER THAN seven of Gagich's varsity girls participated in summer clinics or camps this year. On top of that, 24 athletes attended the GCHS summer volleyball clinic, which was conducted by University of Houston coach Nancy Mueller, a friend of Gagich's.

"I'm excited about these girls," Gagich said. "The kids are looking for more opportunities to gain experience. They're paying the price, and doing what it takes to be successful. Things really seem to be falling into place."

Granite City opens its season Aug. 31, with a home game against Civic Memorial. The Lady Warriors will try to recover from what was at times a disappointing season last year.

THE NUMBER of athletes turning out for volleyball was down this year, but that doesn't bother Gagich.

"I think the kids are getting the word that this is a 100-percent program," Gagich said. "The kids that are out for the team this year have chosen what they want to do. They've made the choice, and they've made the commitment. They know what's expected of them." And although the offseason commitment isn't exactly expected of them, many of the players apparently realize this is what it takes to compete with the powerful teams.

Both Becky Mueller and Lisa Hasty participated voluntarily — in the University of Kentucky summer camp this summer, while Amy Tapp played in a camp held at St. Louis University. Katie Dellamano participated in the Belleville Area College camp last month.

Roe switches schools, signs with FontbonneBy Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Now Darin Hendrickson has Andy Roe, and Roe will have some playing time.

Hendrickson, a Granite City native and head baseball coach at Fontbonne College, has announced the signing of Andy Roe to a baseball scholarship at the school, located in Clayton, Mo.

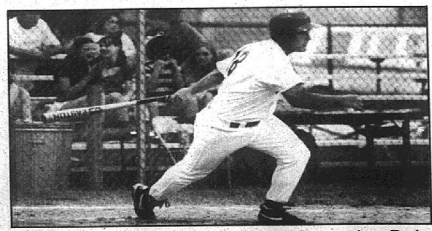

ROE, A 1994 graduate of Granite City High School, had spent his freshman year at Lewis and Clark College, but was unhappy with his playing time last year. The future didn't look much better for him.

"I wouldn't have played much at Lewis and Clark, and I talked to Darin and he said I could play for him," Roe said. "I had one year left there, but I decided that making the switch to Fontbonne was the right move for me."

Hendrickson said he was very happy to have Roe in the fold for next year.

"I CAN SEE Andy playing first base and third base for us," Hendrickson said. "He'll get to play right away. He's got a good bat, and he's a great kid in the classroom. He's the ideal student-athlete, and just the kind of player I'm looking for in our program."

Roe, who turned 19 on Friday, added that besides the playing time, he liked the campus and small-school atmosphere at Fontbonne.

"I think their student-teacher ratio is about 13 to 1, and I think I'll like that a lot better than those big classes, which is what Lewis and Clark was like," he said.

Roe is set to report to the college at 3 p.m. Monday. He said he has taken some time off since the American Legion baseball season, but when he gets back to working on baseball he wants to increase his speed on the bases.

ROE SAID THE fact that

Hendrickson is from Granite City also helped in his decision.

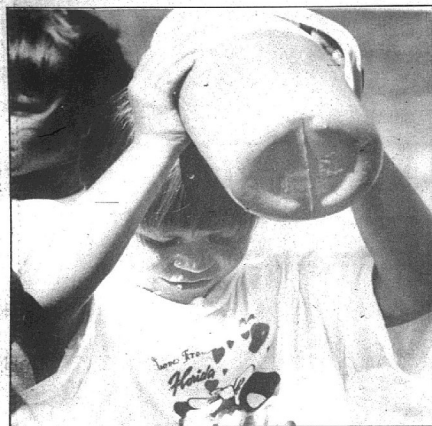

"I had certainly heard of him," Roe said of Hendrickson. "In fact, he played ball with my brother Matt. The fact that he was from here played a part in it."

Roe played varsity ball for three years at GCHS, spending time in the infield and behind the plate. This past summer, he played mostly third base and shortstop for Tri-City Post 112.

Roe is the son of Milton and Sue Roe of Granite City, and he credited his parents for Yehling said she work on her stroke and she added, "I should be able to handle that. Otherwise, I think to get stronger, I should make the progress as well."

Games helped my confidence, and swimming over in Clayton helped me, too.

"The competition is very tough over there, and we had to work hard year-round. Swimming for Paddlers, I discovered the competition isn't as hard over here."

Yehling, the daughter of Mark and Donna Yehling of Granite City, was recruited by at least two other schools, including Vincennes University, which called just a couple days before Karen left for Lincoln.

"We had to tell them it was too late," Mark Yehling said. "Lincoln is a small school, and we thought the college seemed to have good moral standards. We think Karen made the right decision."

Yehling said she still needs work on her stroke technique, and she added Homeway should be able to help her out with that. Otherwise, she'll continue to get stronger, and that should make the program stronger as well.

providing lots of support over the years.

He also thanked all of his coaches, including Gus Lignoud, Daren DePew, Bob Stegemeyer and Doug Winfield. He gave special credit to Howard Black, who coached Roe in a Collinsville summer league.

"That was right after junior high — the summer before my first year of high school," Roe said. "He really helped me come a long way that summer, and I made me ready for the high school level."

Hendrickson, who was named head baseball coach and assistant AD at Pontbome this summer, said Roe was the first of what he hopes are many players from this side of the river. "Of course, I'll always be looking at kids from Illinois, but not necessarily just Granite City," Hendrickson said. "I know that there are quite a few good players over there."

"I'm happy with this decision," Hendrickson said. "It will give me the chance to play regular, plus get a good education."

Emilee Rollins and Denise McMillan.

In fact, McMillan was voted the most consistent setter by the coaches who led the clinic. Also at ISU, Jennifer Willis participated in the hitters clinic, and was named as the most valuable hitter by staff coaches.

The team's talent is there, and the commitment looks to be there as well. So what's left? Chemistry.

"Chemistry is the most important thing on the volleyball court," Gagich said. "That's why the team, as a group, will be going to Adventure Us, an outdoor bound program facility located in Alton. At the complex, the girls will be instructed by professional trainers in physical and mental exercises and problem solving. It will be used to bring the team together as a unit."

"It should be interesting," said Gagich. "The kids are paying for it themselves, and this is the first time we've ever done anything like this. Everybody's excited about it, and it should be fun."

"I'm pleased with what I saw tonight. I thought they responded very well. Their execution was good, and they weren't distracted."

Harris had a total of 33 players dressed for the scrimmage. Junior varsity and freshman teams also got some reps in on Thursday night.

Several of the varsity Warriors spent the evening on the sidelines. Harris said injuries have already resulted from practice.

"We scrimmaged a couple days ago, and we do have some people banged up," he said. "But they just needed a break tonight. Most of them will return to practice soon."

Harris added the team will scrimmage again down the road. The Warriors open their season Friday at Cahokia. The Comanches are coming off three consecutive playoff campaigns, while the Warriors will try to get 1995 off to a good start after finishing winless last year.

The other highlight of Thursday's scrimmage was the nice fan turnout. As long as the spectators brought a fan and bug repellent, they probably enjoyed themselves.

"We are always supported well," Harris said. "The fans always come out for us. After all, this is America's sport."

"When we held our first meeting last week, so many of the parents came out that we filled up the first level of the gymnasium. The support has been great."

Outdoor baptism and seminar held

The Rev. Benjamin Kelly performs a baptism.

An outdoor baptizing was held Aug. 12 at St. James Church of God in Christ in Madison by the pastor, the Rev. Benjamin Kelly. The Assemblies of God sent approximately 2,000 people called "Ambassadors in Missions" to minister to the youth of this area.

Children who accepted Jesus as their Lord and Savior were baptized by Kelly, who also prayed for all school children. Joyce Jackson, evangelist, taught a seminar on "Who Am I?" Things discussed at the seminar were how to be an example for the children, making a stand for God in righteousness, living right by not doing drugs, not swearing at your children, treating the children with respect and dignity, obeying Jesus' commands and raising the children to be holy.

School lunches

Granite City Community Unit School District #9 has announced its policy for free and reduced price meals for those students unable to pay the full price for meals under the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs.

The following household size and income criteria will be used for determining eligibility:

Single resident households — with an annual income of $9,711, monthly income of $810 or weekly income of $187 are eligible for free meals; with an annual income of $13,820, monthly income of $1,152 or weekly income of $266, are eligible for reduced price meals.

Two-resident households — with an annual income of $13,039, monthly income of $1,087 or weekly income of $251 are eligible for free meals; with an annual income of $19,556, monthly income of $1,547 or weekly income of $357 are eligible for reduced price meals.

Three-resident households — with an annual income of $18,367, monthly income of $1,531 or weekly income of $351 are eligible for free meals; with an annual income of $23,292, monthly income of $1,941 or weekly income of $448 are eligible for reduced price meals.

Four-resident households — with an annual income of $19,695, monthly income of $1,642 or weekly income of $379 are eligible for free meals; with an annual income of $28,028, monthly income of $2,336 or weekly income of $539 are eligible for reduced price meals.

Five-resident households — with an annual income of $23,023, monthly income of $1,919 or weekly income of $443 are eligible for free meals; with an annual income of $32,764, monthly income of $2,731 or weekly income of $631 are eligible for reduced price meals.

Six-resident households — with an annual income of $26,351, monthly income of $2,196 or weekly income of $507 are eligible for free meals; with an annual income of $37,500, monthly income of $3,125 or weekly income of $722 are eligible for reduced price meals.

Seven-resident households — with an annual income of $29,679, monthly income of $2,474 or weekly income of $571 are eligible for free meals; with an annual income of $42,236, monthly income of $3,520 or weekly income of $813 are eligible for reduced price meals.

Eight-resident households — with an annual income of $33,007, monthly income of $2,751 or weekly income of $635 are eligible for free meals; with an annual income of $46,972, monthly income of $3,915 or weekly income of $904 are eligible for reduced price meals.

For each additional family member — add $3,328 to annual, $278 to monthly or $64 to above weekly guidelines to determine eligibility for free meals; add $4,738 to annual, $395 to monthly or $92 to above weekly guidelines to determine eligibility for reduced price meals.

Children from households that meet Federal guidelines are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

All meals served must meet patterns established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. However, if a child has been determined by a doctor to be handicapped and the handicap would prevent the child from eating the regular school meal, the school will make substitutions prescribed by the doctor. If a substitution is needed, there will be no extra charge for the meal. Those who believe their child needs substitutions because of a handicap should contact the school district for further information.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced price benefits, households must complete the application as soon as possible, sign it and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office at each school. Households should be processed and approved by the school. The required information is:

Food Stamp/AFDC currently — If a household currently receives food stamps or AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) (AFDC) for their children, they only have to list the children's name and food stamp or AFDC case number and sign the application.

Below the level shown on the income scale (above), children are eligible for either free or reduced price meals. Households must provide the following information: names of all household members, the social security number of the adult household member signing the application (or the word "none" if the adult does not have a social security number), the amount of income each household member received last month, where it came from (wages, child support, etc.) and the signature of an adult household member.

The information on the application may be verified by school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If income information is provided and children are approved for meal benefits, households must tell the school when their household income increases by $50 or more per month ($600 per year) or when their household size decreases. If a food stamp or AFDC case number was listed, the household must tell the school when they no longer receive food stamps or AFDC for their child.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not eligible now, but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or a household member becomes unemployed, they should fill out an application at that time.

In certain cases, foster children are eligible for meal benefits regardless of the household income. If a household has foster children living with them and they wish to apply for meal or milk benefits for them, they should complete the application.

Households dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss it with the school. Households also have the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the Hearing Officer, Administrative Assistant, 1947 Adams St., Granite City, Ill. 62040, (618) 451-5800.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, national origin, age, sex or handicap. Any person who feels they have been discriminated against should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.
